STUDENTS across Hackney were celebrating their exam results, after a long, anxious wait over the summer.

The number of A Level pupils achieving A*-C grades was up on last year, at over 75 per cent, with nearly half achieving A*-B grades.

The outstanding results came despite significant changes to A Level courses affecting this year's students.

Students getting their GCSE results on 24 August also performed extremely well against the new grading system which has changed from A*-E to Grades 9-1 for core subjects.

Two-thirds of pupils passed English and Maths GCSEs, achieving grade 4 (equivalent to grade C) and nearly 50 per cent achieved a 'strong' pass at Grade 5

Cllr Anntoinette Bramble, Deputy Mayor of Hackney, said: "Huge congratulations to everyone who collected their results over the last couple of weeks, and a big thank you to our brilliant teachers and school staff, as well as the friends and family who have supported our pupils through such an anxious time. Whatever they go on to do next, I wish each of them well for the future."

Grant Rifat, left, and his father Asif, who own KAC Builders Merchants in Stoke Newington

Putting safety first

A FATHER and son who own a builders' merchants in Stoke Newington have explained why they stopped selling corrosive substances to under 18s four years ago.

Grant and Asif Rifat from KAC Builders' Merchants in Stoke Newington Church Street, found out from the suppliers of their most potent drain cleaners that there was no law preventing their sale.

"After that, I just decided to limit their sale to over 18s – they're dangerous substances, and I don't think people should be able to get them easily," Grant said.

The highly concentrated products, which include caustic soda and some types of drain cleaner, have been used in violent attacks across London.

Asif said: "I don't think people realise how strong it is – these attackers may end up hitting our sons, daughters, nieces or nephews and changing a life forever."

Their shop was one of seven visited by the Council's Trading Standards team this month in test purchases across the borough.

Grant and Asif refused the sale to the test's teenage purchaser.

“These attackers may end up hitting our sons, daughters, nieces or nephews and changing a life forever”

Selling corrosive substances to under 18s is not illegal but Hackney Council is encouraging businesses to sign up to its voluntary scheme to restrict their sale.

Hackney Council Cabinet Member for Community Safety, Cllr Caroline Selman, said: "We'll continue to visit traders and get more signing up, but we're also clear that the only way to reduce the accessibility of corrosive substances is a change in legislation, which we would urge ministers to look at urgently."

Easing council tax burden on care leavers

YOUNG adults leaving the care system will be exempt from paying council tax under a new Hackney Council scheme.

Survivors of domestic abuse will also benefit from the package of council tax changes due to launch in October.

The care leavers scheme is aimed at 18 to 25-year-olds now living independently.

Hackney Mayor Philip Glanville said: "We hope that removing the cost of council tax – along with the other support available to care leavers – will help to make this transition a bit easier."

Residents who have had to leave their home as a result of domestic abuse, and are still paying council tax there, will be exempt from paying it on a second property.

Cllr Rebecca Rennison,

Mayoral Advisor for Domestic Abuse, said: "Fleeing your home to escape domestic abuse is a huge decision. It's important we support people by removing some of the financial burden."

Participants enjoying a New Age Games exercise session. Top: Pam Spencer, 77, is a keen participant in New Age Games activities

Sign up for New Age

SEPTEMBER could be the start of something new for Hackney's over 50s as the New Age Games, the Council's programme of free exercise activities for the age group, leaps into action.

This is the New Age Games' sixth year, with lots of free activities on offer for those who want to take part, including yoga, swimming, swing dance, off-road cycling, tennis, soca aerobics, badminton, table tennis and much more.

Hackney resident, Pam Spencer, 77, credits the New Age Games with changing the way she lives. After a fall in 2015 resulted in a low blood pressure diagnosis, she was fitted with a pacemaker and advised to stop working.

This led to a period of isolation before she decided to start doing something new.

"I joined the scheme because I was fed up with myself – I did not want to move, I did not want to get up and I was bored," explained Pam.

"I found my first session a bit hard and didn't think I would stick it.

"I live alone in sheltered accommodation and on my return home, I saw people with walking sticks moving around the facility.

"I thought if they can get out of their flat then so can I," she added.

“Now I've made friends and have a laugh with them, I'm healthier and my sleeping is better”

Since then, Pam has never looked back: "I was doing no exercise and didn't know a soul before I started attending New Age Games.

"Now I've made friends, have a laugh with them, and am attending five classes a week. I really enjoy it, especially soca aerobics and Brazilian dance.

"I am healthier, my asthma has improved, my sleeping is better and my doctor has told me to keep exercising because it's got my blood pressure under control."

The New Age Games run from 4 September until 17 March 2018 and are part-funded by Sport England's Life Through Sport scheme.

News in brief

Clampdown on violent conduct

PEOPLE are being reminded of the Council's zero tolerance attitude towards abusive, aggressive or violent conduct aimed at staff or contractors, following the successful prosecution of a resident who violently threatened a parking warden.

In March this year, the warden placed a notice on a car which was parked illegally on Woodberry Down estate. The owner of the vehicle chased the warden and threatened him with a 3ft long wooden stick while trying to open the door of his vehicle. The police were called and arrested the resident.

After being taken to court and found guilty of using a weapon to threaten or cause fear, the resident was given a six month suspended sentence, a curfew for three months with electronic monitoring and 100 hours of unpaid work. He was also ordered to pay compensation of £100, costs of £620 and a surcharge of £115.

Cllr Feryal Demirci, Cabinet Member for Neighbourhoods, Transport and Parks, said: "Council staff are working for the residents in the borough and shouldn't be subjected to verbal or physical abuse when carrying out their duties." If residents disagree with a decision made by the Council, they can raise a complaint at www.hackney.gov.uk/complaints

Restaurant dumped rubbish

A RESTAURANT in Islington has been prosecuted twice in two months for dumping rubbish in Hackney. Cukorova Restaurant, on the Islington side of Green Lanes, was fined £1,000 in June this year after sacks of rubbish were found across the road, in Hackney. The restaurant owners did not respond to any communications from the Council and in August were fined a further £1,820 after more rubbish was found further down the road, also in Hackney.

The dumped sacks

Cllr Caroline Selman, Cabinet Member for Community Safety and Enforcement said: "This business owner thought they could save a few pounds by taking their rubbish across the road in the hope that someone else would deal with the problem. Local authorities spend a lot of money keeping streets clean, but we need businesses to do their part by arranging to have their rubbish and recycling collected by their council or a licensed waste carrier."

Residents can use the free Love Clean Hackney mobile app to report fly-tipping and other environmental crimes - search for Love Clean Hackney in your app store.

Now is the time to check your heating

HACKNEY Council is urging tenants to check their heating throughout the last of the summer months to avoid being caught in the cold.

The Council often receives a high number of calls about faulty heaters towards the end of September and beginning of October as the nights draw in and temperatures drop. This can lead a backlog of emergency call-outs and mean some residents may have to wait for heating repairs.

Donald Day who works for the Council's gas and boiler team, said: "During the summer residents don't often have their heating on, which means faulty systems can go unnoticed."

If you have your own heating system – rather than a communal heating system – check your heating once-a-month during August and September and report any problems immediately.

If the heating does not come on after doing the checks, right, report the repair online or contact the Repairs Call Centre on: 0208 356 3691.

Test your heating

It is quick and simple to test your heating, all you need to do is:

- Make sure you have both gas and electric credit on your meters
- Turn on your programmer to heating
- Turn on all radiator valves
- Turn the room thermostat to maximum
- Radiators should now get hot
- Run for 5 minutes and then turn off

Aspire Study Achieve

Half a million students received their GCSE results last Thursday

DID YOU KNOW?

STUDENTS who were getting their GCSE results on 24 August also performed extremely well against the new GCSEs grading system in core subjects, which has changed from A*-E to Grades 9-1.

Overall, two-thirds of pupils passed the new tougher English and Maths GCSEs, achieving grade 4 which is equivalent to a grade C. Nearly 50 per cent achieved a 'strong' pass at Grade 5 (above grade C to B) while pass rates at grade 4 for English Language and English Literature were about 10 per cent higher than the national figures – over 76 per cent of students received a pass in English Language and 82 per cent in English Literature.

The Urswick School saw more than half of students achieving grade 4 or above (C-A*) in English and Maths. Headteacher Richard Brown said: "This is my 10th year of GCSE results at the school. We have made so much progress at Urswick in that time and I am delighted for everybody."

Former Head Girl Melissa Hussain, 16, achieved 11 GCSEs, including A* in 4 subjects and grade 8s in Maths and English Literature. She said: "I'm so surprised at my results but relieved that my hard work has paid off and I'm so thankful to the teachers that have helped me achieve my wonderful results."

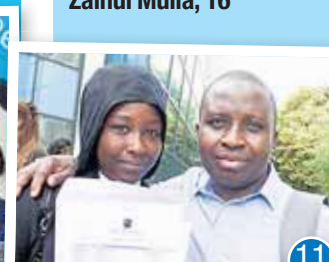

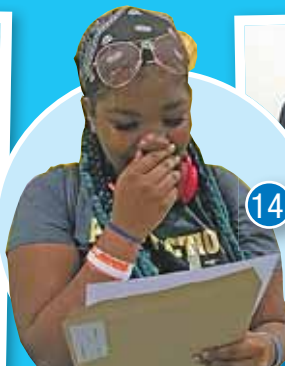

Our Lady's Convent saw 92 per cent of students achieve grades 9-4 in English (previously A* to C grades). Pupil Hazel Boadu-Antwi is celebrating after achieving 2 As, 1 B and 3 Cs, despite having spent the past six months in hospital receiving treatment for leukaemia.

In remission now, Hazel said: "I remember seeing my friends being productive in their studies and it felt so frustrating to not have the energy to revise. I knew that as soon as I was out of hospital I would dedicate to C (or equivalent) grades and a record 40 per cent of all grades at Clapton Girls' Academy were A* to A (or equivalent) – twice the national average of 20 per cent. The Bridge Academy saw 64 per cent of students achieve grades 9-4 in English and Maths, while 43 per cent of students at the Petchey Academy achieved grades A* to C in nine or more subjects.

Over 70 per cent of students at Stoke Newington achieved five A*

"I was preparing myself to look at Ds and Cs, then saw my grades. I will be staying at Clapton next year to study"
Sukie Jenkins, 16

"I definitely wasn't expecting some of my grades. It shocks me. But I'm really proud of myself for what I have done."
Shazmin Jan, 16

"I was sweating, I was so nervous. I put myself in isolation, but Clapton Girls' was so amazing they helped me so much, they were so supportive."

Making the grade

Hackney's A Level students shrugged off major changes to courses by bettering last year's A* to B grades total HACKNEY students celebrated some impressive grades on A Level results day on 17 August.

Overall, the number of pupils taking home A*-C grades was up on last year, at over 75 per cent with nearly half achieving A*-B grades. Overall pass rates (A*-E grades) dipped slightly on last year, at 97.7 per cent, in line with the national trend.

The results come despite major changes to A Level courses, which saw many become two year courses, with no interim AS Level exam, leaving students to take a final, more rigorous exam at the end of year 13.

At Stoke Newington School, 80 per cent of pupils picked up A*-C grades, with 57 per cent achieving A*-B. Headteacher Annie Gammon said: "We are delighted to see these brilliant achievements from all our sixth form students."

Clapton Girls Academy was also celebrating

This year, boys achieved more top grades than girls for the first time in 17 years.

"I'm really relieved. I've been waiting for this day all summer and I got the results I deserved and just so glad I am accepted into the University of Reading"
Pelinsu Bozdemir, 18, D1(Distinction*) D1(Distinction*) B, impressive results, with 88 per cent of students achieving A*-C grades – putting it in the top 25 per cent of sixth forms nationally. Student Happy Imagidon secured a place at UCL to study chemical engineering.

She said: "The school really encouraged me. I want all girls to study STEM subjects, like chemical engineering and become doctors and scientists."

That success was replicated across the borough. Haggerston School celebrated a 100 per cent pass rate and all pupils at The Urswick School's sixth form have been offered a place at university, for subjects ranging from law and business to psychology, fine art and English.

The Urswick's James Murphy, who has a statement of special educational needs, joined the school in year seven with a reading age of six. His hard work paid off,

"I'm so happy with my results and want all girls to study STEM subjects and become doctors and scientists" and he left school with two As and a B. He said: "I'm speechless, my grades are so good I'm hopefully going to get into an even better university than I first applied for. I worked really hard for this, but I want to thank everyone who has supported me for seven years, as I know they worked even harder in giving me support."

The Petchey Academy celebrated its 10 year anniversary with very strong results, with 22 per cent of students heading to Russell Group universities.

By Harriet Worsley

YOU can't really escape your passions," says Angie Gough, "as a kid, growing up in Ireland, I always wanted to be an artist. But I was one of 11 children so my parents pushed me to do a proper job. I regretted that, but now I guess I'm finally coming full circle."

She really is. The ArtsKickers Awards she launched last year were conceived in order to celebrate, "all the countless individuals and organisations whose hard work, dedication, passion, slog and effort inspires communities to engage in the arts in East London".

"I thought it would just be a small reception in a pub," she says, "I hoped we'd get 50 nominees. But we got over 250. And huge names in the arts signed up to the panel. And it just snowballed from there."

To start at the beginning: Angie had a successful career at the BBC before having children changed her priorities. Looking for a new direction, she decided to retrain in social media with local organisation, Digital Mums.

"It was a brilliant way to upskill and meet this fantastic, supportive network of women," she explains. And as part of her training, she decided to document a year-long challenge online.

"I learned that 41 per cent of kids in Hackney lived in poverty," she explains, "and at the same time, an Arts Council report revealed that children from lower income families are the least likely to engage in the arts. I knew there were so many amazing arts initiatives happening in Hackney and I wanted to bring the two communities together."

And so, her campaign #KickUpTheArts began.

"I dragged my kids to galleries and shows all year long," she explains, "sharing information and tips online, hoping to inspire others to make the most of East London's brilliant cultural scene."

At the year's end, her campaign earned her a marketing award nomination. She didn't win. Instead, something more important happened.

"My sister [Kelly Gough] came to babysit when I went to the ceremony," she explains. "She's an actress."

As is another sister, Denise, who won an Olivier Award for Best Actress in 2016.

Angie explains: "It transformed Denise's career. We started to think: what if we could have our own awards ceremony, to champion all the amazing community arts projects and people I'd encountered during my #KickUpTheArts year?"

The ArtsKickers Awards

Angie Gough at the 2017 ArtsKickers awards ceremony

Kickstarting artistic flair

“We want to give people the opportunities, information and support to turbo-charge their work”

were born. First Denise signed up as a judge, then the poet Lemn Sissay MBE, artist Gavin Turk, the Hackney Empire's Susie McKenna, Observer editor John Mulholland and more. Nominations began to roll in, too.

"We shed a lot of tears over my kitchen table, reading about people who live and breathe their communities," says Angie. "They don't wait for help from government or elsewhere, they just get on directly addressing social issues that we simply fail to address from the top down."

Nominations piled in for Core Arts, for example, a Hackney mental health charity. "They transform people's lives," says Angie, "but they do it quietly, without recognition."

Members of the police nominated the Ruff Sqwad, a grime collective whose work with young people has reduced crime in their immediate community by an astonishing 40 per cent. In the end, they had to invent two new awards categories to deal with the inundation of nominations.

"When we brought 200 of these extraordinary people into one room for the awards ceremony it was amazing," says Angie.

"Yinka Shonibare, who won the Chief Artskicker Award, gave a beautiful speech in which he said artists can't survive alone. We need the support of each other. And that's what started happening that night, in that room."

Take young Hackney singer Nesah Gonzales for example. "She has the most amazing talent but no contacts. Arts Kickers gave her the confidence she needed and with a bit of mentorship from people like Susie McKenna, she applied for a Disney Music scholarship and is off to the Royal Academy of Music in September."

In fact, that's Angie's ambition for the Awards next year, and in years to come. "We want to nurture people and organisations through their careers," she says. "The arts can present a closed door to those who aren't part of the club."

"We want to be that club for East London's grassroots organisations and talent. We want to give them the opportunities, information and support to turbo-charge their work."

To that end, she is already working busily on next year's awards.

"We need funding, volunteers, sponsors, prizes, office space, a stage manager..." she says.

It sounds exhausting but Angie looks energized: "There are so many amazing people and organisations in East London," she says.

"We want to help them, like they help so many others."

Bring parking bays to life

A pop-up 'parklet' temporarily replaces a parking bay in Calvert Avenue – an idea Hackney Council wants to replicate on World Car Free Day

HACKNEY will celebrate World Car Free Day by transforming a number of car parking spaces in Shoreditch into small, temporary parks.

Car Free Day on Friday 22 September, is an opportunity to rethink how we use the space that is given to cars.

Hackney is a dense borough and, while a large amount of our public space is dedicated to motor vehicles, only 35 per cent of Hackney residents own a car.

The Council wants to find out if there is a better way to use some of that space to benefit everyone.

“We want residents to suggest locations and uses for more permanent parklets”

It is looking for creative and interesting ways to temporarily bring these 'parklets' to life and wants to hear people's ideas.

The Council wants creative and feasible uses that will engage the public to rethink how parking spaces can be used.

Options could include seating, greenery, play spaces, gym equipment, cycle parking or artworks, or something completely different.

Cllr Feryal Demirci, Cabinet Member for Neighbourhoods, Transport and Parks, said: “Car Free Day is a part of the Council's wider objectives to improve the quality of the public realm, tackle poor air quality, and be a model for sustainable urban living in London.

“The pop-up parklets are an opportunity for us to see what works, and how they could be rolled out more widely.

“In the future we want to provide a way for local residents to suggest locations and uses for more permanent parklets everywhere – Car Free Day is just the start.”

As well as the pop-up parklets, the Garden Walk Garden Party will see a busy Shoreditch street turned into a green oasis for World Car Free Day, featuring a food and drink market hosted by local businesses.

Choose sites for electric vehicle charging points

RESIDENTS and businesses are invited to suggest sites for new electric vehicle (EV) charging points, following £150,000 in funding from the Mayor of London.

The new infrastructure will add to the 44 public charging points at 22 locations across Hackney. Where possible, the Council will attach the new charging points to existing lamp columns to reduce street clutter.

Cllr Feryal Demirci, Cabinet Member for Neighbourhoods, Transport and Parks, said: “Hackney Council's policy is to try to enable more people to walk, cycle or use public transport for as many journeys as possible.

“For those journeys that have to be made by car or van, we are helping residents and businesses improve local air quality by helping them switch to non-polluting vehicles.”

Hackney will also benefit from £470,000 Neighbourhoods of the Future funding for the City Fringe area (Hackney, Islington and Tower Hamlets).

“Hackney's Council's policy is to try to enable more people to walk, cycle or use public transport”

Cllr Demirci with some of the Council's electric vehicles

This funding will aim to deliver a number of 'electric streets' across the City Fringe with a range of interventions that prioritise low emissions vehicles. Proposals include electric vehicle charging infrastructure, banning the most polluting vehicles from certain streets and converting parking bays to electric only.

The Council is also expanding its own electric fleet, with 40 new vehicles expected to be in use by April 2018. Owners of electric vehicles and businesses and individuals looking to purchase an EV/hybrid can email movegreener@hackney.gov.uk to suggest locations for charging infrastructure.

Students from St Paul's with St Michel's using the speedometer

Pupils join transport police to measure vehicle speeds

PUPILS from St Paul's with St Michel's Primary School joined Council Road Safety officers and Hackney's Police Safer Transport Team to tackle speeding traffic on Queensbridge Road.

Pupils used speedometers to measure the speed of passing vehicles, and the police issued warnings to the owners of the vehicles found exceeding the limits.

Within minutes, the pupils identified several vehicles travelling up to 34mph, 70 per cent faster than the 20mph limit.

The idea was for the children to gain an understanding of why speed limits exist. After a few minutes many of the children were able to recognise those vehicles travelling at faster speeds, some even managed to predict the speed correctly.

Community Roadwatch is a road safety initiative which aims to reduce speeding in residential areas. It gives residents the chance to work with their local police teams and use speed detection equipment.

Warning letters can be issued and the data used for future police activity.

To take part in Community Roadwatch, or to suggest an area where there are community concerns around speeding, contact CommunityRoadwatch@met.police.uk.

Hidden River Festival

9 Sept, Outside the Redmond Community Centre, N4 2HF
New River Path, Woodberry Wetlands

Designed by locals, Hidden River Festival is a day of free entertainment to celebrate the neighbouring communities of Woodberry Down, surrounded by an urban wetland oasis.

Hidden River Festival is back for the fifth year running and will feature live music, art, crafts, food and events for all the family. New River was dug by hand more than 400 years ago and is still in use today, bringing Londoners fresh drinking water from springs in Hertfordshire. Nestled beside the East and West Reservoirs at Woodberry Down, New River creates a stunning backdrop for the festival with its wildlife and views for the public to explore.

Events include a Wetland treasure hunt, live music and theatre, arts and crafts workshops, kids' playground, and even the chance to try canoeing along the river.

Running through Hackney and Haringey, the Hidden River Festival celebrations will take place from 12noon-6.30pm, outside the Redmond Community Centre along the New River Path to the Wetland Gates.

London Symphony

10 September, Rio Cinema, E8 2PB

A NEW independent silent film featuring stunning visuals and stirring music, offers a poetic journey through the capital, and a celebration of its culture and diversity. Described as "a love letter to a city, but also a film about life in a modern era", London Symphony was filmed in more than 300 locations, including many in and around Hackney, and captures the spirit as well as the poetic playfulness of these classic city symphonies of the 1920s urban cinema in a 21st Century update. With stunning black-and white visuals combined with James McWilliam's original compositions, director Alex Barrett and writer Rahim Moledina have produced a beautiful and enjoyable modern-day variation. So, sit back and enjoy the rhythm and motion of this symphonic celebration. The film screening will be followed by a Q&A session with the director. Rated U. London Symphony takes place 10 Sept, 3.30pm-5.50pm. Tickets: £9.50-11.50. For more info, visit: www.riocinema.org.uk

Head for heights

By Sheerie Barker

ST JOSEPH'S Hospice staff were among 30 people who abseiled down the Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park's ArcelorMittal Orbit to raise funds.

The daring volunteers successfully descended 262 feet down the UK's tallest sculpture on 20 August, raising more than £17,000 for the hospice.

Ella Williams and her cousin, Clair Merner, took on the challenge in memory of Ella's mother Jacqui.

“Knowing that my mum was being so well looked after was such a comfort to me”

She said: “Mum spent the last five weeks of her life at the hospice and it gave her so much happiness. She absolutely loved the staff and, for me and all my family, knowing that in her last few weeks she was being so well looked after, was such a comfort.”

St Joseph's Hospice cares for local people with serious, life-limiting conditions or who are coming to the end of their life. Services include palliative care, emotional support, spiritual care, and creative activities.

The next fundraising event for the charity is the Great East End Walk on 3 September.

News in brief

Your views on health charter

THE first ever co-production charter for health and social care in the borough has been released.

Co-production is when organisations work in equal partnership with the people who use services to design and reshape them. The aim is to create better services by drawing on local knowledge and experience.

Healthwatch Hackney drafted the co-production charter based on feedback and ideas shared by over 70 residents at a People as Partners: Co-production Conference in July. It sets out the rights people can expect for the co-production of services from local health and social care organisations such as Hackney Council, Homerton Hospital and City and Hackney Clinical Commissioning Group. The deadline for feedback is Friday 29 September and the Charter is expected to go to the Hackney Integrated Commissioning Board for endorsement in October.

To read the charter and give feedback visit www.healthwatchhackney.co.uk.

Over 70 residents shared their ideas for the charter

City and Hackney CCG AGM

RESIDENTS who would like to hear about healthcare work and future plans in the borough are invited to attend the AGM of the City and Hackney clinical commissioning group (CCG), which commissions health care services. The meeting will take place at Hackney Town Hall on 27 September, starting at 6pm, and there will be an opportunity to put questions to the governing body. Sign up to attend at: www.eventbrite.co.uk/e/city-and-hackney-ccg-annual-general-meeting-tickets-36398496884.

To submit questions in advance, email cahccg.cityandhackneyccg@nhs.net before 22 September.

Practice rated 'outstanding' for helping homeless

A DOCTOR'S surgery in Hackney that delivers care to homeless patients, has been rated Outstanding by the Care Quality Commission (CQC).

Forty percent of the Greenhouse Practice's 1,000 patients are rough sleepers while 60 percent live in hostels or other temporary accommodation; 96 percent of patients have at least one long-standing condition.

In addition to easy GP registration and same day access to appointments, the practice provides full health assessments, TB screening, a needle collection service, housing advice, welfare and benefits support.

Dr Muneeb Choudhry, clinical director, said: “It's an honour to receive this special accolade and it is a celebration of the continued efforts of our whole team.”

City and Hackney CCG, who commission the service, was the leading CCG in England for addressing health inequalities last year, based on the NHS assessment framework.

According to a report by Homeless Link, 41 percent of homeless people reported a long-term physical health problem while 45 per cent had been diagnosed with a mental health problem. Yet many homeless people don't realise they do not need a fixed address or ID to go to a GP practice.

Professor Ursula Gallagher, CQC deputy chief inspector of GP practices, said: “The work done at The Greenhouse Practice is inspirational.

Feedback from patients was consistently positive and there was a strong, open and embedded culture.

Recipes straight from the ovens at Waterhouse

www.waterhouserestaurant.co.uk

THIS is the latest in a series of regular recipes courtesy of Waterhouse – a social enterprise restaurant alongside the Regent's Canal in Shoreditch. Holidays can mean lots of people getting together for meals and this recipe is a real crowd pleaser – it's vibrant, filling and easy on your pocket. Perfect summer food.

Prawn Tagliatelle

Serves 10

Preparation time
20 mins

Cooking time
10 mins

Ingredients

- 2 red peppers, finely sliced
- 2 yellow peppers, finely sliced
- 750g tagliatelle
- 300g peas
- 300g broad beans (podded)
- 500g prawns

White wine sauce:

- 6 shallots, finely sliced
- 100ml cooking white wine
- 25g whole grain mustard
- 150g butter
- 50ml double cream

Method

For the sauce

- Cook the shallots in a sauté pan until they are brown. Add cooking wine and cook for a further 2 minutes
- Add the whole grain mustard and butter until the shallots are caramelized
- Add the cream and season to taste.

For the vegetables

- Roast the peppers in the oven for 10 minutes, turning them half way through

Putting pasta dish together

- Cook the pasta in boiling water for 7-8 minutes (al dente)
- Heat the sauce in a sauté pan and add the peas, broad beans and roasted peppers
- Cook for 2 minutes before adding the pasta, making sure all water is drained from the pasta first. Cook for a further 2 minutes
- Add the prawns for 2 more minutes
- Serve and enjoy!

Have Your Say on anti-social behaviour and vulnerable people

HACKNEY Council is launching a consultation to find out what residents think of its approach to anti-social behaviour (ASB).

The focus of the consultation is on where there may be a link to support needs, such as substance misuse or mental health issues.

This can include begging, some kinds of anti-social street drinking, street urination and defecation, and ASB associated with sex work, all of which the Council wants to resolve, but can often prove challenging to address without causing unintended harm.

The Council's current approach is to offer support to people to access the help they need and enforcement action is taken as a last resort.

As part of the consultation, residents will be asked whether they

The Council is proposing a redirected giving scheme for vulnerable people begging in Hackney as part of the consultation would support the Council setting up a redirected giving scheme, where residents could donate to a fund that gives grants to support vulnerable people who are begging in Hackney.

The results will feed into Hackney's public space anti-social behaviour strategy.

The consultation closes on 24 September. Visit consultation.hackney.gov.uk or call 020 8356 3170 to request a paper copy of the consultation.

The Mayor and councillors

Councillors are elected by residents and serve for four years. The last borough-wide elections took place in May 2014.

Councillors have a range of responsibilities, including helping to oversee Council services.

They hold advice surgeries where residents can meet their local representative and ask them to take up issues of concern. Generally they can help with Council related matters, but if the issue is the responsibility of another person or organisation, councillors can often point people in the right direction and tell residents who they need to see.

Hackney has 57 councillors representing areas called wards – see map below.

MAYOR PHILIP GLANVILLE

Hackney's executive Mayor Philip Glanville, was directly elected by the borough in September 2016. He is the political leader of the Council, overseeing the budget and all Council services. The Mayor holds monthly casework surgeries in the Town Hall. To book an appointment, email: mayor@hackney.gov.uk; or call: 020 8356 3269. Residents are first encouraged to contact their ward councillor. Civic and ceremonial duties are undertaken by the Speaker of Hackney who is chosen annually from the borough's 57 councillors. The current Speaker is Cllr Rosemary Sales.
